

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVE., MARCH 1, 1882.

The widow of Daniel Webster died at New Rochelle, N. Y., on Sunday night.

The Secretary of War has ordered 100,000 rations sent to St. Louis for distribution to sufferers by the flood.

The Garfield memorial services took place Monday in the hall of the House of Representatives. Mr. Blaine delivered the oration.

NATIONAL bank notes received for redemption during the week amounted to $1,450,000, and for the corresponding week of last year, $838,000.

CAPT. J. B. EADS was again before the Mississippi river House committee, Saturday, and advocated the closing up of all existing gaps in the levees, at an estimated cost of $200,000.

The sales of leaf tobacco during the past week at Cincinnati were interrupted to some extent by the flood in the Ohio. The offerings were smaller than for several weeks past and were principally of the inferior qualities.

THE Yeoman says: A war Democrat, having been approached and asked to support Gov. Jacob for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, said: "No, sir! he is not my sort of Democrat. His hands are the hands of Esau, but his voice is the voice of Jacob."

MR. STEELE, of Indiana, will introduce in congress shortly a bill appropriating $25,000,000, for the construction of a ship canal connecting the lakes and the Ohio River. It is to reach Lake Erie by a connection with the Maumee River at Toledo and the Ohio by a connection with Wabash River at its headwaters.

Among the general bills considered by the Legislature this week was one which provides that the owners of any particular freehold estate in any unimproved city of town lots, with reversion to the parties, shall, if they improve said lots, have through their heirs or assigns, the privilege of removing such improvements within ninety days after the life estate ceases. The bill passed.

THE assassin Guiteau is still buoyed up by the hope of a new trial, and professes to be very confident of a favorable consideration of his application. He has made no preparation whatever for his execution and does not seem to regard his death on the gallows as probable at present. He has lately endeavored to secure the services of Benjamin F. Butler, R. T. Merrick and Judge Magruder to argue the question of the jurisdiction of the court that convicted him, by promising them his note for $5,000 to each, payable in one year. The money with which to pay the notes he expects to obtain by lecturing if the question is decided in his favor.

THE Yeoman says: Gen. John S. Williams, who is in the city on a brief visit to Kentucky, having arranged a pair on all political questions which may come up in the Senate during his absence, gives a hopeful view of the Democratic outlook at Washington. He thinks we have gained notably in the tariff question, and that the principle of a tariff for revenue has been strengthened beyond a doubt, particularly among members from the west and north-west. He is sanguine that the democrats will have a good working majority in the next House, despite the effort to legislate in the republican interest in the matter of the apportionment. In reference to Conkling's nomination for the supreme bench, he says no one at Washington anticipated it.

James P. Poyntz.

VANCEBURG KY., Feb. 28, 1882.—The BULLETIN's kind and feeling notice of the death of James Pat. Poyntz struck a chord of sympathy that vibrates through many hearts in old Lewis, where Mr. Poyntz spent much of his early life. From childhood he was a patient sufferer from rheumatism, at times helpless and for many years a cripple. During this period the old firm of Wm. and Nat. Poyntz were the largest pork-packers and southern produce shippers on the Ohio and a great many of their employees were from Lewis county. These men became attached to the only son of Nat Poyntz, and often conveyed the invalid boy to their mountain homes where he was a welcome visitor during his whole life. James P. Poyntz's gratitude for these kindly early attentions knew no bounds and as Dryden expresses it:

"Kindness by secret sympathy is tried
For noble souls in Nature are allied."

In our young days a favorite pastime was to play upon the tanbark in Poyntz's yard to amuse Pat, whose affliction prevented him joining in such sport, and we often helped him from place to place. Long years after we talked of these incidents and found them fresh in his memory. The highest and noblest gift of our departed friend was gratitude.

The murderers are unknown.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.
